"Know that nothing is as big a deal as it seems. When things go crazy, take a step back. Look at the big picture."

PACT Teens Meet with Commissioner of Education Armando Vilaseca

PACT teens Heather Slattery and Nora Rogers had a remarkable invitation on Tuesday, November 24, to meet with Vermont Commissioner of Education Armando Vilaseca in Montpelier to talk about PACT.

Heather and Nora discussed with the Commissioner

- the founding of PACT and S.A.D.D.;
- the creation of the PACT logo;
- the importance of student voices;
- the role they feel a group like PACT can play to allow teenagers and children to feel valued by their community.

Heather noted, "The most rewarding thing for me was that the Commissioner took time specifically out of his day to listen to us as students. Instead of attending a stuffy business meeting about our education, we spoke to him directly about our school and community. This showed a lot to me about the type of man Mr. Vilaseca is and how much he genuinely cares about Vermont students."

Also in attendance at the meeting were Charles Johnson, Safe Schools Coordinator, as well as PACT Co-Chairs Susie Merrick and Steve Loyer.
